

I am excited to be considered for a position on the Board of Directors for the SCCM Northern California Chapter. I am currently a full-time practicing intensivist and have a main appointment at Eden Medical Center in Castro Valley. I moved to the East Bay in late 2022 after almost two years of locums work across the United States during the pandemic. Prior to that I was a clinician investigator at University of Pittsburgh, and I continue to have an adjunct associate professor appointment through the Department of Critical Care Medicine. As an investigator my focus was on health services research and the organization of intensive care delivery. I have been involved with SCCM and the journal Critical Care Medicine for many years. I am interested in joining the Board of Directors to help facilitate connections between northern California members and to promote local professional engagement.
